SENATE PASSED IT.

Immigration Bill Went Through, 52 to 10, Thursday.

The Effect Is to Restrict the Influx of Undesirable Persons.

Several Features of Interest in the Proceedings of Both Houses.

Washington, Dec. 17. In the Senate to-day a motion by Mr. Hale (Rep., Me.) that when the Senate adjourned to-day it adjourn until Monday, met with some remonstrances on both sides of the chamber, but was agreed to without division. The House amendments to the Senate bill as to the lands of the Atlantic & Pacific R. R. Co., were laid before the Senate and were on motion of Mr. Hill (Dem., N. Y.) non-concurred in and a conference asked—Senators Hill, Platt (Rep., Conn.) and Clark (Rep., Wyo.) being appointed conferees on the part of the Senate.

In presenting a lot of petitions from Alabama declaring there was no lawful State government in that State, Mr. Chandler (Rep., N. H.) clashed with Mr. Allen in reference to the failure of Mr. Allen's resolution of inquiry on that subject at the last session, Mr. Chandler asserting that the resolution failed because of some intemperate remarks of Mr. Allen questioning the motives of Republican Senators; Mr. Allen denying that, but asserting that he had a grave suspicion that the resolution never would be acted on in good faith by the Republican side of the chamber.

After the passage of the two Senate bills on the calendar (as to the accounts of army officers, graduates of West Point military academy and for the relief of Major Wm. M. Maynadier) the House bill to amend the immigration laws was taken up.

The Senate amendment was modified to make the exclusion paragraph read: "All persons over 16 who cannot read and write the language of their native country or some other language, but an admissible immigrant over such age who may bring in with him or send for his wife or parent or grandparent or minor child or grandchild, notwithstanding their inability to read and write." Mr. Morgan (Dem., Ala.) moved to amend the bill so it shall not apply to immigrants from Cuba.

The demands of humanity, he said, were obvious in relation to Cuba. The United States could not afford to send back Cubans to the merciless grasp of the men from whom they had escaped. The exception, he argued, could be made without interfering with the general clause in treaties as to "the most favored nations."

Mr. Hoar suggested that a better way would be a provision authorizing the Secretary of State to provide for the admission of immigrants fleeing from war or political oppression or in consequence of political disorder.

Mr. Morgan's amendment, modified so "the act shall not apply to persons arriving in the United States from any port or place in the island of Cuba during the continuance of the present disorders there, provided such persons have heretofore been inhabitants of that island," was agreed to, yeas 37, nays 6, negative votes being given by Messrs. Caffery (Dem., La.), Hill (Dem., N. Y.), Lindsay (Dem., Ky.), Palmer (Dem., Ill.), Pettigrew (Silver Rep., S. D.) Walthall (Dem., Miss.).

Mr. Elkins (Rep., W. Va.) offered an amendment for the collection of a head tax of $10 on all immigrants coming to the United States in vessels not of the United States.

After discussion the amendment was rejected.

Mr. Morgan (Dem., Ala.) offered an amendment prohibiting the naturalization of any alien "who cannot read correctly the Ten Commandments and the constitution of the United States printed in some language." Laid on the table.

The bill was passed—yeas 52, nays 10. The following is the vote in detail:

Yeas—Messrs. Allen, Bacon, Baker, Bate, Berry, Brown, Burrows, Butler, Call, Cameron, Cannon, Chandler, Chilton, Clark, Davis, Dubois, Elkins, Faulkner, Frye, Gallinger, Hale, Hanna, Hawley, Hill, Hoar, Kyle, Lodge, McBride, McMillan, Mantle, Marsh, Mitchell, (Oregon,) Morrill, Nelson, Pasco, Pettigrew, Perkins, Pettigrew, Platt, Proctor, Pugh, Quay, Sewell, Sherman, Smith, Stewart, Teller, Vest, Wolcott, Wetmore and Wilson.

Nays—Messrs. Blackburn, Blanchard, Caffery, Lindsay, Mill, Mitchell, (Wis.) Morgan, Murphy, Palmer and Vilas.

A committee of conference was ordered, Senators Lodge, Chandler and Faulkner being appointed conferees. The Senate at 4.30 adjourned till Monday.

The House.

When the House adjourned yesterday it was divided upon the amendment to the army appropriations bill recommended by the committee of the whole, to except the hospitals at Hot Springs, Ark., from the appropriation for maintenance of hospitals. Today the Speaker put the question and the yeas and nays were ordered. The amendment was agreed to, 151 to 80, then the bill passed.

Mr. Curtis (Rep., N. Y.), from the Committee on Military Affairs, reported the military academy appropriation bill for the year ending June 30, 1897. Calendar.

The Committee on Affairs of the District of Columbia had the right of way for business. The House passed half a dozen measures of local interest only, then the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill was taken up in committee of the whole. The only new legislation proposed relates to the transfer of the Congressional library to the new building and the necessary consequent increase of the force. Some routine business was disposed of and at 5.10 the House adjourned.

Augusta, Me., Dec. 17. Calvin Day, of Waterboro, was arraigned here today for threatening to shoot Dr. E. T. Sanborn, superintendent of the Maine insane asylum. On being refused permission to see her Wednesday he became angry and told Mrs. Remick's brother he would shoot Dr. Sanborn. Dr. Sanborn says that threatening letters had been sent him by Day. The latter being unable to secure bonds, was committed to jail to appear at the April term of court.

FOREIGN NEWS.

Bayard at Bristol.

Bristol, Eng., Dec. 17. Hon. Thos. F. Bayard, the American minister, arrived here today in response to an invitation to distribute the prizes and deliver the address to the students at the annual commencement of the technical school of the society of merchant ventures. Mr. Bayard was invited to be present at the commencement, for the reason that his great grandfather on the maternal side belonged to a distinguished family of Bristol merchants.

His great grandfather was born in Bristol in 1700 and subsequently settled in Philadelphia and was mayor of that city, as his father before him had been mayor of Bristol. Mr. Bayard took luncheon with the council of the Bristol chamber of commerce in the board room of the council. Replying to a toast to the health of the guest of the occasion the ambassador said there was much in the hearts of Americans today to make them look upon England as the old home.

The ties of blood, he said, were thicker than water. Continuing he expressed the hope that when he returned to America no cloud would obstruct the vision of any just minded man. Mr. Bayard proceeded to make his usual Anglophilic speech, concluding by declaring his belief that the peace existing between the two English speaking nations would never be broken.

Earthquake Caused Panic but Did Little Damage.

London, Dec. 17. At Hereford the rumbling sound of earthquake was followed by two crashes. Men and women rushed from their houses into streets and one woman died from fright. At Ruthin the shocks were accompanied by thunder and lightning and for 15 seconds there was a distinct movement of the earth. At Liverpool the shocks were followed by thunder, lightning and hail, and there were similar manifestations at Bridgenorth, where the streets at first seemed to be on fire. For several seconds after this there was a violent report followed by a heavy shock. Only a slight quaking sensation was felt at Manchester, Birmingham and in the northwestern part of London.

The area of seismic disturbances was unusually wide, extending hundreds of miles from London north to Lincoln, thence west to Lancashire, south through Wales to Taunton, southeast to Southampton, over two hundred towns and villages being affected. There were no fatalities except in the case of the woman who died from fright at Herford.

The telegraph lines were not affected. The attaches of the Greenwich observatory say the galvanometer which registers earth currents showed very slight disturbance at the time of the shocks. The authorities at Stonyhurst observatory say their galvanometers showed no indication of a seismic disturbance.

DAMAGE BY THE GALE.

Several Wrecks of Vessels at Vineyard Haven.

Vineyard Haven, Mass., Dec. 17. The northeast gale of Tuesday night and Wednesday was probably the most violent since the great gale of April 8, 1887, when seven vessels were stranded here. Fortunately Tuesday night there was but a small fleet in harbor here but seven of these are now strewn along the shore at the head of the harbor.

Schooner Emma McAdam, of Calais, Capt. Swain, New York for Beverly, with a cargo of coal, parted her chains Tuesday night and went ashore at the head of the harbor where she lies with her jib boom and head gear carried away.

Schooner George W. Glover, of Rockland, Capt. Torsey, Staten Island for Boston with a cargo of clay, parted both chains and went ashore at the head of the harbor.

Schooner D. W. Bell, of and for St. John, light, and schooner Pavilion, Capt. Clark, from New York, of and for Calais with a cargo of coal, also parted their chains and went ashore during the night.

On account of the extreme high tide all lie well upon the sand beach. The British schooner Sower, which was stranded here during the gale of October, floated this morning and fouled the schooner Anne, of Boston, as a steamboat. Chief discharging grain from New York. The Anne had her bowsprit with all the head gear carried away and her starboard bow badly stoven. The Sower had her bowsprit badly stoven and sustained other damage.

THE BRAM CASE.

Cross-Examination of Monks Begun by Mr. Cotter.

Boston, Dec. 17. In the Bram case today Mr. Cotter began the cross-examination of Mr. Monks by asking a portion of the room of the witness in relation to that of the rooms of Captain Nash and wife. The witness said his room was between theirs, but whether the connecting doors were locked he could not say. Neither could he say who shared for his room. The captain's revolver was found under the mattress in the room of the witness. He had never seen it before.

Been advised by counsel in Halifax, who accompanied him to Boston, not to had the services of two lawyers here. It was not by his orders that the pamphlet in the hands of the district attorney in which he was interrogated had been served the defence. He prepared a statement telling of the occurrences on board the vessel at the time of Brown's death. It was entirely his own composition and was not dictated by anyone. He thought the witness could write a better story than he could, and that is why he did it.

Witness said in the signed statement in which it was said "my theory" that he did not mention it was his individual theory, but it was a theory suggested to him. Where he said "Brown was heavy sleeper," that, witness said, was his own. Other similar statements written in the first person, the witness admitted, were his own, and he had emphasized that the theory that the crime was committed by the second mate was also his. When he entered the cabin of Mrs. Nash he did not see her body, but did see the blood on the sheets.

When witness went on deck he was looking for the first mate and found him placing the deck as it was his duty to do. He had his revolver pointed toward Mate Bram and was prepared to shoot him when the mate threw the board at him. Witness thought he did not see the revolver. Witness corrected his statement he made in the morning that Bram did not go into Captain Nash's room after the murder and he did go there. Witness asked Bram to remain in his room while he (witness) was dressing.

He did not want to have him wandering around. Had no suspicion of him at the time, but thought he ought to be in the forward part of the vessel. Monks said he did not testify to two spots of blood on Bram's suspenders and he did not see the spots. Said he never had any idea of being accused of the crime connected with the tragedy. He had taken a small medicine chest which contained laudanum, sometimes. While in Cambridge he was interrupted by Dr. Monks, his uncle, and his patients. Was of the nature of a rest cure.

A memorandum book which Monks kept on the trip was used for a few questions. Witness admitted he Brown and Bram made resistance when they were put in irons. Said he did not remember Bram said he was innocent when the accused was found guilty. He said there was blood on an exchange, so much so that the only white was where the fingers were clasped around it. He attempted to throwing the axe overboard as a precaution against the crew using it against them. He did not hear anyone beside Bram speak of throwing the bodies overboard. He thought the most suspicious act of Brown was the changing of his clothing, remarking he was going to the rail at least once.

Said the only light in the cabin was that hanging before the clock. He did not see any wounds on either the captain or Mrs. Nash because the light was too dim. Denied remonstrating against a sailor suggesting that the bodies should be thrown overboard.

Mr. Cotter asked witness if his theory up to the time of the examination in Halifax was that the second mate was committing rape on Mrs. Nash and Captain Nash attacked the second mate with an axe. Mr. Monks said he wrote it at Bram's suggestion but it was not his theory at present.

Mr. Cotter handed Monks a statement of what transpired in his experience after he left Boston July 5, until the Herbert Fuller tied up at Halifax. Mr. Monks read this to the court. This was a sworn statement made before the consul-general of the United States at Halifax. Mr. Cotter then questioned Monks on the statement that he made a regard to the theory of triple murder. Monks said he had the steward examine Bram's trunk principally to find the Captain's revolver and to find evidence against Bram, who was then in irons.

He said he thought the ship was on its original course when it was suggested to throw the bodies overboard.

Mr. Hoar again examined Monks. He said he saw clothes soaking in a common wash tub; the contents included a plaid shirt. Saw blood on the deck house, which he described as dripping on the after deck house. Blood spots were from the forward way to the top of the deck. He found a large splatter of blood at one spot which grew fainter for quite a distance; the spots were underneath the boom and reached forward as far as the lashing plank.

Mr. Hoar desired to offer a note book of Monks as evidence.

Witness stated there was a door leading from the main cabin to the rooms of Capt. Nash, Mrs. Nash and the second mate. Said Bram drank with him and second mate. He heard of Brown's change of clothing Wednesday evening. He occupied the captain's cabin and the captain used the chart room as his bedroom.

Mr. Cotter asked him how far, after the blood spots extended in reference to the boom. Witness said most of the blood was around the companionway.

Charles Brown, the white man, was called to the stand. The court adjourned before any examination was made.

CRUISER BOSTON ASHORE.

Attempted to Run in Foreign Waters Without Native Pilot.

Victoria, B. C., Dec. 17. A letter to a British naval officer in China to a lieutenant of H. M. S. Imperieuse was received yesterday, stating that the United States cruiser Boston is being polite to China for fear, as an example of the danger incurred in attempting to navigate Corean waters without the assistance of a native pilot.

The Boston was proceeding to Chemulpo, a seaport of Seoul, November 6, when she grounded on a sand bar, running out northward from the Marianes Islands in Flying Fish channel, 12 miles from Chemulpo.

There she lay all night pounding heavily until floated at the next morning's high tide by her own exertions. It was discovered that several plates were loosened and that the frame of the ship is spring. The general opinion is that the cruiser will have become loose for repairs.

CORBETT SIGNS.

Articles for Fight to a Finish March 17th.

Jersey City, N. J., Dec. 17. James J. Corbett this afternoon at Taylor's Hotel signed articles of agreement to fight Bob Fitzsimmons on a fight March 16, 1897, for a purse of $15,000 to be given by Dan Stuart. The place of the battle is to be announced before February 17. Stuart is to post a forfeit of $5,000 in the hands of Richard K. Fox or Al Smith, and Corbett and Fitzsimmons, each post $2,000 as a guarantee of good faith. George Siler, of Chicago, is named as referee.

Corbett signed the articles before he noticed that they reserved all privileges for Stuart, and he became somewhat excited when he thought of the kinetoscope privileges. After some reflection he finally said: "I would not change the articles for $10,000,000. If I find out Julian or Fitz gets any share of the privileges money I will kick for my share." Fitzsimmons was not present, nor represented.

Will Benefit the Poor.

The New York World is now deeply exercised over what it is pleased to designate as the Republican scheme to add to the burdens of the poor by restoring "the barbarous and cruel tax on wool," to "increase the taxes on woolens," to raise "the rates on crockery and glass," to "reimpose the duties on lumber," and on various agricultural products. This is indeed the programme of the Republicans, but no one unless he is an idiot or desires to deceive the people, would attack the policy as adding to the burdens of the poor. The World is not silly enough to believe its own assertion, but is sending out this particular style of demagogical rant in the hope of poisoning the public mind.

The removal of duty on wool and the reduction of the duty on woolen goods has not proved a blessing to the American people; neither has the removal of duty on lumber. In fact the entire tariff performance of the Democratic party has proved so destructive in its effects upon both capital and labor that the party has been forced to abandon the issue. The wool clip in this country in 1893, the year Cleveland was inaugurated, was 304,000,000 pounds while in 1895 it fell off to 264,000,000 a loss in the two years of 100,000,000 pounds. In the meantime our imports of wool have grown from 55,000,000 to 250,000,000 pounds, and the importations of shoddy, rags, waste, etc., from 173,774, to 14,772,000 pounds, an increase of over 1,000 per cent.

This tremendous increase in the use of shoddy has been necessitated by the destruction of the American wool clip and the increased foreign competition made possible by the reduced duties. The very thing the Democrats insisted was to be entirely eliminated by free wool, namely, the use of shoddy in the poor man's coat and blanket, has been enormously stimulated by the existing tariff legislation. In addition to this thousands of people have been thrown out of employment or have had their wages reduced as a result of the free wool folly. The best answer to the World's hypocritical attack upon the proposed policy of the Republicans is to note just what a similar policy has done for the American people in the past. Here are some interesting figures:

Total wealth of the country in 1860, $16,160,316,068; in 1890 $62,610,000,000, an increase of 287 per cent.

Total mileage of railroads in the United States in 1860 30,626; in 1890 167,741, an increase of 448 per cent.

Returns from seventy-five leading cities as shown by the census, furnish the following contrast:

Capital invested in manufacturing in 1860 $1,232,839,670; in 1890 $2,860,735,891.

Number of employes in 1860 1,301,868; in 1890 2,251,234.

Wages paid in 1860 $501,195,778; in 1890 $1,221,170,451.

Value of product in 1860 $2,711,579,809; in 1890 $4,860,266,837.

These figures do not indicate that the Republican policy has been a burden on the poor. On the contrary the increase per capita in wages by reason of the stimulation to business afforded by a sensible tariff policy was 41.71 per cent. Another striking evidence of the prosperity of the people under the policy which the World now characterizes as a burden on the poor is to be found in the returns of the savings banks. The total amount of the deposits in these banks in 1860 was $149,277,504 while in 1890 the deposits amounted to $1,524,844,606, an increase of 921 per cent. It is estimated that ninety per cent. of these deposits represented the savings of the wage-earners of the country. The people themselves are perfectly well aware of these facts and in the recent election voted for the restoration of the policy that made this magnificent prosperity possible.

More Conflicting Reports.

Now comes the report that Maceo is alive and well. Whether the report has any foundation in fact of course remains to be determined, but in view of the uncertainty involved it will be absurd for Congress to take any action on the several resolutions that have been offered. With reports reaching this country every day so contradictory in character that it is not yet definitely known whether the Cuban leader is alive or dead, the only sensible course for Congress to follow is to at least wait until it knows what it is acting on before attempting to shape a policy for this Government.

No Chance for It.

The debate in the Senate Wednesday finally settled the fact that it is useless for the people to demand revenue legislation at this session. Senator Gorman, speaking for the Democratic side, declared that it would be impossible for the Republicans to attempt to adopt the Dingley bill, or any other revenue measure at the present session, but significantly added that he "expected they would have a majority for protection in the Senate at the extra session." The Democrats, he said, would undoubtedly oppose and criticise the tariff bill at that time, but there would be no filibustering, and the tariff would become a law after a fair hearing. This statement must, of course, be taken as settling the fate of the Dingley bill the responsibility for the failure of which will be well understood by the people. The Ways and Means Committee will push the work of preparing a new bill as rapidly as is consistent with the importance of the great interests involved, and have it ready for submission whenever Congress reconvenes.

There Are Others.

[New York Sun.]

It was a great day Monday for the Hon. William Vincent Allen, Senator in Congress from Nebraska, and one of the longest and largest "special" and miscellaneous Populist electionists known to science. When he raises himself to his fullest height and drops himself with his utmost power, the rafters have the palsy, and the bones of Washington, Columbus, and all the other statues in the vicinity of the Capitol are heard to rattle most lamentably. Mr. Allen is very grievous when he is grieved, and as he was deeply grieved on Monday, there was a surplus of woe. The Hon. George Frisbie Hoar made some true and appropriate remarks about Nebraska, whereupon Mr. Allen made some excited observations in death, glamed with tears at the Massachusetts tribe, and inserted the idea but somewhere irrelevant apologist that a young man in Nebraska is "the greatest populist (Populist) orator since the days of Thomas Jefferson."

Any opinion as to oratory expressed by Senator Allen will be taken with a grain of allowance by the Populists outside of Nebraska, who are not willing to concede to any other Populist the distinction which Mr. Allen awards so summarily to Nebraska. There are Populists in several States who have good reason to aspire to the distinction which Mr. Allen awards so summarily to Nebraska. The Populists of Kentucky will never cease to extol their own peerless orators and statesmen, the Hon. Hez Lung, the lion-hearted and lion-voiced Hez Lung, and the Hon. Pottsey Grubbs, the flushed, melodious, inspiring, imperial Pottsey Grubbs, an eye of lightning and a voice of fire. Texas smiles proudly at the Hon. Tobe Scrutchings and the Hon. Cyclone Davis, a double rose of eloquence, a double star of wisdom. Missouri points an affectionate finger at her breast, the Hon. Grube Stokenzooper. North Carolina has her Col. Balbba Cocktail; South Carolina has the Hon. Jump Squizzer. Everywhere great Populist orators, each as worthy as Mr. Allen's friend to be considered the greatest Populist orator, can be found; and they will not allow their laurels to be taken from them. Mr. Allen has prepared trouble for himself in assuming the duties of a judge of elocution.

Visitors to Veazie Power Station.

Most of the electrical machinery in our station is run at high voltage, and we feel that our duty to the visiting public demands that we exercise greater caution than heretofore. Most people know that it is unsafe to touch electrical machines and appliances, yet many from boldness or carelessness, so conduct themselves that they cause anxiety to those on duty. If they do not incur great risk. Ordinarily it is impossible for the operatives to give visitors that attention which we would like to have them receive. In the interest of safety, therefore, we feel obliged to limit our invitations to the public to two afternoons in each week, Mondays and Thursdays from 3 o'clock till 6, at which time we will have in the station an attendant whose duty it shall be to take charge of visitors and conduct them about the station, showing them the various machines and explaining their uses.

Even under these conditions, while we do all we can to promote safety, we do not guarantee it, and will not be responsible for any accident whatever. Investigators must come at their own risk.

Still further, in order to limit the privilege to suitable persons, and to know beforehand how many will desire attention, passes will be issued at our office on Center street, on either personal or written application, and without a pass, no person will be admitted after this date. DECISION FOR WIDOW

In "Tight Shoe Sore Too" Insurance Case.

St. Louis, Dec. 17.—In the United States circuit court, yesterday Judge Adams handed down a decision giving Sarah T. Smith a judgment against the Western Commercial Travelers' Association for $2,165. This is the sequel of the celebrated "Tight shoe sore too" case.

The plaintiff is the widow of Freeman O. Smith, who was a member of the defending association, and she was the beneficiary. The policy provided for the payment of an amount not exceeding $5,000 in the event of death by accidental violent accidental means.

In August, 1895, Smith commenced wearing a pair of new shoes and breaking in the pair produced friction of the shoe against his foot, and there resulted, as the judge finds, "unexpectedly and not according to the usual course of things, an carbuncle of the skin, of one of his toes, thereby causing a sore."

The sore grew worse and by the latter part of September blood poisoning set in and on October 3 he died from the effects of such abrasion of the toe caused by the tight shoe. These are the facts as found by Judge Adams and he concluded death was occasioned by "external violent and accidental means within the meaning of the certificate."

UPRISING IMMINENT

Southern Provinces of China Dissatisfied with New Viceroy.

San Francisco, Dec. 17.—A special to the Examiner from Vancouver, B. C., says: Latest advices from Canton state that the new viceroy is bitterly hated by the masses, that he meddles up official business is firm where he should be easy and exhibits ferocity when he should exercise discretion and tact.

Large quantities of arms and ammunition are said to be pouring into the Kwang Tung and Kwang Tsi provinces and the viceroy is reported to be very uneasy, because he has reason to believe that secret societies are very active throughout southern China.

It appears, in fact, that there is every prospect of the masses rising in the southern provinces in the near future and in such a determined manner that the insurrection will not be easily suppressed. It is believed that a step like this may lead to the overthrow of the present Chinese dynasty, and that Li Hung Chang, who declares in favor of the beautiful provinces, may become Emperor of China.

INTER-STATE COMMERCE.

Tenth Annual Report of the Commissioners Made Public.

Washington, Dec. 17.—The tenth annual report of the inter-state commerce commission made public today, gives a digest of three decisions rendered by the supreme court of the United States during the year of special importance to the commission. In one case, at least the tribunal, as the report, has been upheld in a most important point, in the outcome of the other have emphasized the defects of the statute or cast doubt upon the interpretation by the commission of certain sections relating to the efficient administration.

The most far reaching of the decisions was that in the case of the Texas & Pacific Railroad Co., and the state commission, originally decided by the commission January, 1890, and commenced the important case. This case was brought by the New York, Lake Erie & Western Railroad Co., Pennsylvania Railroad Co., The case practically raised the question whether, in the carriage of goods from American ports to points subject to the net gold law, the rate for the transportation of goods of domestic origin of the same destination.

The commission in 1890 made a rate on the charge for like service between foreign and domestic traffic, which was called "protecting the duty on rates."

Although the supreme court did not sustain the commission in its construction of the meaning of the long and short haul provision, it did hold that whether the short haul charge is unjustly discriminatory is a question peculiarly within the jurisdiction of the commission.

In the case of the interpretation of the full power to enforce the provisions of the law to collect the commission.

The third important case is the "Brown case," in which the Supreme court of the commission to compel witnesses to testify. A full section of the important decision is set forth in the report and the commission says: "The decision seems to have effectually removed the hitherto existing difficulty in obtaining the testimony of witnesses. In two instances, one in Illinois and the other in Massachusetts, the court in 1891 in the Brown case, and in 1893 in the Brimson case, the difficulty in the interpretation of the statute and the attitude of the courts in proceedings to enforce the subpoena."

Prior to this decision in the instances in which witnesses were summoned, they could not be compelled to give any material information, or be forced to give evidence against his fellow workmen in the order and recement to do so, or, in order to avoid imprisonment in himself, there was no special difficulty in compelling the witnesses under this statute. The decision in abolish punishing the imprisonment is now provided for in the report proposed by the commission.

The practice of the commission in its investigations, grievances and complaints from shippers or consignees, commonly operate successfully. An investigation of irregular practices and unreasonable methods of carriers of grain on the Missouri river, in October, December, 1894, followed during the year, resulting in arriving at charges for the transportation of grain from points on the Missouri river to Chicago, Milwaukee and Kansas City, which were called "protecting the duty on rates."

JUDGMENT AFFIRMED

In Case of United States against Bonbyshell.

Philadelphia, Dec. 17.—A decision was filed by Judge Acheson in the United States circuit court today affirming the cases of Olin Bonbyshell, ex-superintendent of the mint, and his surety on his bond in favor of the United States. Last May a verdict was rendered in the United States circuit court in favor of the plaintiff against the ex-superintendent, the sum of $100,000 and the sum of $12,17.

The action was brought to recover the remaining shortage in the bullion office of gold bullion, which Superintendent Henry S. Cleaman, in his report that Bonbyshell was responsible for shortages occurring while he held office. Judge Acheson says: "We are of the opinion that no sufficient reasons are for the entering aside of the judgment of the court, and accordingly the judgment in each of the cases is affirmed."

The other day a New Yorker started across Broadway. He was in the heyday of ambitious, vigorous youth. A puff of wind blew an insignificant, almost invisible atom of dust in one of his eyes. It blinded him. He clasped his hands over his eyes and staggered on, only to be run down and killed by a cable car. That man's death was due to an insignificant trifle, an atom of dust that was barely visible under the microscope. It is thus with health. Men find that they are suffering from a trifling disorder of the digestion. It doesn't amount to anything, they think, and time is precious. They don't stop to correct it, but stagger blindly on and are run down by the heyday of ambitious youth by death.

Neglected indigestion is the first cause of all manner of wasting diseases and all forms of nervous disorders. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures all disorders of the digestion. It invigorates the liver, imparts a keen, hearty appetite and causes the life-giving elements of the food to be perfectly assimilated. It purifies the blood and builds healthy tissue. It is the great blood-maker, flesh-builder, and nerve tonic. It cures consumption, wasting diseases and all disorders of the nerves.

"I was afflicted five or six years from indigestion," write B. B. Holmes, of Godfrey, Spartanburg Co., S. C., "also from sore stomach and excessive headache. After taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets' which in a few days gave me permanent relief."

Cataloguing System.

There is an ingenious system of cataloguing the lists in the State insurance department, by which the clerk, C. W. Fletcher, is enabled to simplify the work of sending out the various reports, statements and other matter relating to the department.

The list of persons to whom the matter is sent is a long one. This is to be handled by a card system in the future, which will be much more convenient than the book system formerly used. The cards of the several persons to whom the various papers are sent about so often—some to one man, some to another—brings in a great amount of detail.

For instance, there are some who want fire insurance; and vice versa. There are also managers who want certain papers. In all there are five kinds, generally: Annual reports; parliamentary reports; text and tables of fire; text and tables of life; directories and copies of the laws.

Now the cards, with names of the several persons to whom matter is sent, are alphabetically arranged in drawers, on the same plan as library catalogues. On each card is printed the names of the different kinds of matter to be sent out, with a table of dates, with square spaces to check the article sent, the day it was sent, and by what means—whether by mail or express. This keeps a record and the cards are good for 10 years.

But the most economical part of the arrangement is in a protruding piece of the card on top which denotes the classification of persons. These are arranged consistently, so to speak. The bunch-like protrusion with classification marked thereon—fire, life, etc.—enables one to pick out the various ones with ease, without looking through all. The indexes thus described are, of course, on the upper edge of the cards, but vary in their location, but with each class always in the same line, as one looks over the lot.

The method is a good one for its purpose, and can be used to advantage in mostly every line of catalogues, where classifications are made. One great advantage, Mr. Fletcher says, lies in the completeness of record. From various causes the matter sent is often mislaid or lost. The latter complaint is the department that [illegible]

THE BRAM TRIAL.

Principal Witness in the Case on the Stand.

Lester Monks Tells the Story of the Triple Tragedy.

Boston, Dec. 17.—Lester Monks, who was a passenger on the barkentine Herbert Fuller, continued his testimony today in the trial at Moto Thomas Bram for the murder of Capt. Nash. The witness was examined by United States District Attorney Hoar and his testimony was given with clearness and intelligence and with a just comprehension of its importance. His demeanor was modest and unassuming and evident y made a deep impression on the jury.

He was slightly nervous during the recital of the most tragic parts of his story. His testimony was continued this morning with a description of the cabin rooms and their location. Witness had never seen the wheel locked.

The witness proceeded to tell what occurred at the time of the tragedy. He said that on July 13, he retired at about eight o'clock, leaving the two mates and the man at the wheel on deck. Capt. Nash and his wife were below. The captain was reading in the chart room. He last saw Mrs. Nash on deck just after supper walking with her husband. Bram stopped up and spoke to them.

Witness went to bed and was awakened by a scream. He didn't pay much attention to it at first but hearing a gurgling sound coming from the captain's room he called out, "Captain Nash, Captain." Receiving no reply, witness partly dressed and took from a drawer a box of cartridges and loaded his revolver. Going out he went into the chart room and saw the captain's cot on its side, and he lying on the floor.

Witness put his hand on Capt. Nash's shoulder and said, "Capt. Nash." He didn't answer, but made a gurgling sound. Witness then went to Mrs. Nash's room and called her. Receiving no answer he entered but didn't see her, it being dark, but on it some dark objects. Witness started to run on deck by way of the forward companionway. Saw Bram on deck walking up and down and pointing his revolver at him, and called "Mr. Bram." He threw a plank at witness, but did not hit him. "He said 'Come below, the captain has been murdered.' His reply was "No-no-no."

Witness said: "Come down and see for yourself." He went into his stateroom, and in about two minutes and a half with his revolver which witness had requested him to get. They crept to the room of the witness while he dressed. They went up on the windward side of the ship and witness asked where the second mate was. The reply was "there is a mutiny and he is forward with the crew and they will probably rush aft."

Witness told him to cover the man at the wheel with a revolver, which he did. Bram then dressed the forward part with his revolver. Bram then said the second mate had given him a blackjack which was dredged and made him sick. As they walked together Bram staggered. He then began to cry and charged witness to put the knees and asked for protection. He said he had been hard on the crew and he was afraid they would kill him. Bram then awakened the steward, Spencer, and told him the captain had been murdered. The steward said "I'm coming." The steward went aft and looked down through the skylight and saw the body. He then asked for the second mate, found the body and said the lad been murdered. The witness said to Bram, "You said he was alive" and the reply was, "So he was." He asked the steward if he had a revolver. He said he had not and the mate gave him his and asked the witness for his revolver, which was refused. Bram called out, "Here is the axe that did it." It was under the deck skylight. He dashed the blade about 20 feet from him. It was picked up and Bram took it in his hand and began to cry hysterically. He said "What shall I do with it?" "Throw it overboard before the crew can see it against us." The steward said: "Don't throw it over board." but Bram did so. The man at the wheel was asked if he had heard anything unusual during the night. He said: "No."

Bram explained the murder by saying he recognized mate Brambeke, had been intimate with Mrs. Nash and that this fact led Capt. Nash to attack the second mate with an axe. In the struggle the second mate got the axe and killed the captain. Then the mate went on deck where he laid down the axe and went back to his room where he died from the wounds received in the struggle with the captain.

Bram after his story suggested the bodies be thrown overboard but Spencer objected and declared they would be carried to the nearest port.

The vessel was about 500 miles from Boston. The men were all searched by Bram and Spencer. Brown was arrested by Spencer, making no resistance and Bram put him in irons. Brown said, "You will find out all about it when you get ashore."

Previous to this the bodies of the victims were prepared for burial, and the Episcopal service read over them by the witness. Brown brought the bodies on deck and they were placed in a boat in lee of the vessel. Bram said, "You can not blame the living for the dead. The dead can't speak for themselves." He said, "Throw the bodies overboard and wash up the blood."

The steward objected. Bram did not assist in carrying for the bodies. Bram said the nearest port was French Guiana, but it was found that that was 1,500 miles away, Bermuda 400 miles away with wind dead ahead, and Halifax for which port they sailed 700 miles.

An entry in the log of the vessel and a statement drawn up by the witness at the request of Bram recalling the occurrence of the night were read and admitted as testimony.

Brown was arrested by order of Bram, who then wanted the statement destroyed, saying: "Now we have got the murderer it is of no use."

Witness said: "We have not got the murderer and it must not be torn up." The handles were cut from all the tools to keep them from the men, and the carpenter's chest was nailed up. All slept on the deck, Brown was kept in irons and tied to the mast.

An English tramp steamer was sighted and witness wanted to hail her, but Bram objected. He asked why she should be stopped and witness said to obtain a navigator. Bram said he was a good navigator and they would lose all the glory.

Witness said he did not want glory but to reach land. The vessel was signalled. She stopped but proceeded on her way without sending off a boat. On the following Sunday noon Bram was arrested by Spencer, who came up behind him and threw his arms around him.

He asked, "What is this for?" and Spencer said, "For killing the captain." Bram made no reply and he was placed in irons.

Witness then told of the voyage to Halifax, the occurrences there and the arrival of the crew under arrest in Boston. The cross examination of the witness was begun by Mr. Cotter at 12.30.

Two Strong Shocks of Earthquake in Southern England.

Terrible Typhus Epidemic at Austrian Naval Station of Pola.

London, Dec. 17.—Two strong shocks of earthquake were felt throughout Wales, the Midlands and the south of England early this morning. The first shock occurred at 3 o'clock and the second at half past five. The waves passed from west to east. Houses were violently shaken, beds moved from their places, doors forced open and furniture overturned.

Telegrams from all quarters concur in the statement that the first shock was of thirty seconds duration and was followed by a loud rumbling sound and minor tremblings of the earth.

The second shock was shorter but more severe. Many people in Windsor, Cheltenham and other places rushed out of their houses, but no one was hurt. The cathedral at Hereford was damaged somewhat, but no other serious damage is reported.

Epidemic Continues.

New York, Dec. 17.—A special cable dispatch to the Journal from Vienna says: A fearful typhus epidemic continues to rage in the Austrian naval station of Pola. The streets are almost deserted, all who are able fleeing from the place. Amusements and even meetings in the open air are prohibited. The dead are buried nightly without any ceremony. The number of sick is increasing by leaps and bounds. Seven hundred patients are in the naval hospital alone, where there are only six male and eight female attendants.

Federal Assembly Elects Officers.

Berne, Dec. 17.—The Federal assembly today elected Dr. Adolph Deucher, president of the Swiss confederation for 1897, and Mr. Zemp, the present minister of the interior, vice president. Dr. Deucher was vice president for 1896.

DYING LIKE SHEEP.

Fearful Ravages of Yellow Fever at Port au Prince.

New York, Dec. 17.—A Philadelphia dispatch says: The brig Arcadia, which arrived here yesterday from Port au Prince, reports the natives there dying like sheep of yellow fever. The disease has broken out on board a number of vessels in the harbor, in some instances carrying off the entire crew.

The mate of the Portland schooner Clara E. Randall, died of yellow fever while the vessel was at that port.

Captain Connor of the Boston schooner Max, and the steward, died of the fever there and Captain Stratton, of the Boston schooner Mucosia, was stricken with the fever as were several other shipmasters.

CHEERED MCKINLEY.

Enthusiastic Crowd Met Him at Chicago.

Chicago, Dec. 17.—Major McKinley arrived this morning in the private car of J. S. Brooks, general counsel of the Pennsylvania road, which was attached to the New York express. The trip from Canton was without incident. Maj. McKinley slept well and was in excellent spirits. He is looking forward with pleasure to the period of recreation which awaits him.

As the President-elect emerged from the station he was heartily cheered by a large crowd which had assembled and it was with difficulty that he made his way to the carriage. Capt. H. C. Halstead, who is Maj. McKinley's confidential secretary, drove with him to the residence of Capt. McWilliams.

Maj. and Mrs. McKinley will probably spend Friday and part of Saturday at the residence of Mr. Dawes in Evanston.

HERMANN IS DEAD.

Rochester, N. Y., Dec. 17.—Hermann, the magician, who gave a performance here last night at the Lyceum theatre, died this morning at Great Valley while enroute to Bradford, Pa.

Mr. Hermann was perfectly well when he took the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh train here at 7.30 this morning. As the train approached Great Valley, a few miles this side of Salamanca he suddenly expired. The car containing the body was switched off at Salamanca and a doctor summoned.

KNOX COUNTY JAIL BIRD.

Man Arrested at Bridgeport Proves to be Joseph Peters.

Bridgeport, Conn., Dec. 17.—The prisoner who has been held here during the past three days awaiting the Maine authorities to arrive, proves to be Joseph Peters, who is wanted by the authorities in various cities in Massachusetts as well as in Maine. Sheriff Talbot of Rockland arrived this morning for the prisoner, who escaped from the jail there, where he was confined awaiting transfer to the State prison. Some years ago he escaped from the jail in Warren, Maine, after he had been bound over. Peters served ten years in the Massachusetts State prison for a burglary committed in Charlestown. He is also wanted for a jail down at New Sharon, Maine.

BOUND FOR WINTERPORT.

Schooner Nautilus Taken in Tow for Destination.

Boston, Dec. 17.—The schooner Nautilus, from New York via Vineyard Haven for Winterport, Me., ran ashore in Wells Bay last Tuesday. She was assisted off and taken in tow to Portland. The vessel's steering gear was broken and a survey recommended that she be towed to her destination. She has a cargo of 122 tons of feed consigned to J. F. Soper & Co., of Boston, whose storehouse is at Winterport. The schooner is not leaking and the cargo is but little if any damaged. Capt. A. A. Tolman has communicated with the owners of the vessel here to arrange for a general average when the Nautilus reaches her destination.

USUALLY THE CASE.

More Damage by Water than Fire.

Portland, Me., Dec. 17.—A fire broke out this morning in a small club room over L. D. Austin's clothing store in Middle street. There was very little damage by the blaze, but Mr. Austin's large stock of clothing was soaked with water and the loss will be from $2,500 to $3,000; insured.

Condensed Despatches.

The two masted schooner Modesty, which sank some time ago below Boston light, was driven ashore at Nantasket Beach Wednesday morning. Divers succeeded in removing about ten tons of slate. About seven tons of slate and about 200,000 lath remain in the vessel. The schooner will now be a total loss.

The fire in the Galveston county, Texas, court house Wednesday night caused a loss of $35,000; insurance, $10,000.

The New Hampshire State Grange Wednesday adopted resolutions endorsing J. H. Brigham, of Ohio, for Secretary of Agriculture.

Freight train No. 85 was wrecked Thursday morning at Westmoreland Depot, near Keene, N. H. Several cars were damaged. No one was hurt. The Keene fire department responded to the call for help and the blaze was extinguished without damage.

CITY AND VICINITY.

The project of organizing a lodge of Knights of Columbus in Houlton meets with much encouragement.

The district meeting of Odd Fellows which was called to meet in Presque Isle on Friday, December 18, has been postponed until some time in January.

The Castine State Normal School has 175 students in attendance, with about 15 more to come. This is the largest number in the history of the school. The entering class numbers 57.

A 13-years-old Machias miss saved the baby, who upset the lamp, also the house and now bears her burns with the courage of a martyr. Emergency develops heroism where least looked for.

Bethlehem division, U. R. K. of P., have presented their commander, F. H. Welch, with a beautiful silver mounted writing set, consisting of eleven pieces, as a token of their esteem for him, and appreciation of the work done by him in behalf of the order in general.

There is considerable talk of forming a lodge of the Order of the Eastern Star in connection with Mosaic Lodge, F. and A. M., Foxcroft. Fifty have agreed to join, provided a dispensation is granted by the grand lodge. There is also talk of having a ladies' auxiliary to Protection Lodge, A. O. U. W.

At the last session of the Legislature a special resolve in compliance with a petition of Donner Shaw and others of Greenville, was passed appropriating $500 to be expended under the authority of the steamboat inspectors, in designating by buoys obstructions to navigation on Moosehead lake. This duty is nearly completed, and a balance of $150 20 is now in the treasury, which will complete the work.

It will be remembered that public attention was several months ago attracted to a boy named Fred Hearn, who came here from Houlton. He had relatives who could do nothing with him and refused to keep him any longer. Then he was befriended by the ladies who have charge of the Home for Friendless Boys, in Deering. They procured a good home for him with a Gorham farmer, but the boy ran away. Since that, the boy has been in the Portland almshouse, but has been a source of trouble to the keeper, refusing to go to school and frequently playing truant. Wednesday, Judge Robinson sent him to the Reform School during his minority.—Portland Advertiser.

The committee on the order of exercises for the centennial celebration of Augusta met Wednesday afternoon at the residence of Hon. J. W. Bradbury. Mr. Bradbury was chosen chairman and Melvin S. Helway secretary. It was voted to hold the celebration on June 9, 1897; to invite Chief Justice Fuller to deliver an oration. A poet will be selected later. Rev. Mr. Weston, of Washington, D. C., will be invited to deliver the prayer at the literary exercises. It was voted to have a parade and that the citizens be requested to decorate their houses in the day time and to illuminate them in the evening. It was also proposed to have a banquet in the evening. The committee adjourned to meet in two weeks at the same place to complete other arrangements.

THAT CATARRH IS A LOCAL AFFECTION of the nasal passages, is a fact established by physicians, and this authority should carry more weight than assertions of incompetent parties, that catarrh is a blood affection. Ely's Cream Balm is a local remedy, composed of harmless medicants and free of mercury or any injurious drug. It will cure catarrh. Applied directly to the inflamed membrane, it restores it to its healthy condition.

The annual report of the State steamboat inspectors, Charles Staples, Jr., and Horace Atwood, shows that there are, as nearly as can be ascertained, 101 steam vessels on the inland waters of Maine. Of these, 133 have been inspected during the past year, with an aggregate of 1,908 tons. Licences have been issued to 171 masters and pilots, 76 of whom paid $2 each. Licences have been issued to 160 engineers, 80 of whom have paid $2 apiece in fees. Of the 133 steamers referred to above 60 of over five tons measurement have paid $5 fees, amounting to $330. Twenty-four new steamers have been added during 1896, an increase of nearly 20 per cent. over 1895, although 18 vessels reported last year have not been on service in 1896.

The annual inspection of the camps of the Maine Division S. of V., has just been completed by Inspector W. L. Gribbin, of Portland, and his assistants, Alfred R. Hall, of Oakland, and Fred B. Pike, of Fryeburg. Inspector Gribbin reports that the camps as a whole are in a healthy condition and that the interest in the work of the order is good. As inspector, Mr. Gribbin has a consolidated report to make out. This report in detail shows the financial, social, and general standing of each camp. There are at the present time about 53 camps in the division, and there are 12 questions to be answered relative to each camp. This necessitates the writing of 2,130 words and figures which makes up the consolidated report, and as these reports are made out in triplicate form it can be seen that it will be no small task to complete.

More Protection for Moose and Caribou.

The annual report of the fish and game commissioners says as to moose, that it would seem from information obtainable that more have been killed this year than in any one year for a great many. This is mainly due to the largely increased numbers who have hunted them. We are convinced, say the commissioners, that, in order to preserve the moose from extinction, more stringent laws are necessary. The bulls are becoming increasingly scarce. They are hunted in the open season. Many are killed in August and September and in calling time, and are bid until October when the heads are brought out, having the carcass.

The rich poacher cares nothing for a fine, so long as he can secure a good head. The report speaks of the recent fining of $100 of one of the class in October, with the comment that its effect lesson has been good throughout the country. In conclusion on this subject the report says: "We are aware that a contrary doctrine has apparently been held by some of the State courts, to wit, that game lawfully killed becomes an article of interstate commerce, and the State cannot prohibit its being transported, but the highest court in the nation, having decided otherwise, and its reasoning is so conclusive that no doubt it will be the accepted and established law of the land.

This is a vital point in the protection of our big game, and every good citizen will rejoice that such is the law as established by the supreme court of the United States.

In this decision the court says: "The wild game within a State belongs to the people in their collective and political capacity. It is not the subject of private ownership, except in so far as the people may elect to make it so, and they may, if they see fit, absolutely prohibit the taking of it, or traffic or commerce in it, if it is deemed necessary for the protection or preservation of the public good."

"Large as the State of Maine is, extensive as our forests are, as much game as we have, our State is not [illegible] enough. Our forests are not extensive enough, we have not and cannot have game enough for 70,000,000 of people.

"Something must be done or else in a very short time not a moose will remain—there will only be the echo of his last "call" to remind us of his former existence."

Of caribou and deer, the report says: There is no question but that at least 10,000 deer have been killed in Maine during the year 1896, quite a proportion of them by our own citizens. This is not guess work, but based on actual count of the numbers transported by the common carriers and records kept by various sporting camp proprietors in the State.

Deer are found in each of the 16 counties in the State. There seems to be no decrease, in spite of the large numbers killed. In some localities, however, due to little attention to laws, the numbers have decreased.

Complaints have been made in a number of instances by farmers that the deer have destroyed their crops. In each case, reported to us, we have requested to be furnished with the exact facts and statement of amount of damage done. We are convinced that the damage is not great, though in many cases doubtless annoying.

Caribou are fast disappearing beyond question, and will soon become practically extinct, unless a close time for a number of years be imposed, or more stringent laws enacted for their protection. Summer and winter killing has accomplished this.

We recently saw what purported to be an estimate of the number of moose, deer and caribou in the State by a famous guide and hunter, Jack Darling. He is reported to have estimated 100,000 deer; 12,000 moose; and 10,000 caribou as being in the State.

At the present time twenty-five per cent. of this number of each would, in our opinion, be much nearer the truth.

GIRLS IN STORES.

Stores, or factories, are peculiarly liable to female diseases, especially those who are constantly on their feet. Often they are unable to perform their duties, their suffering is so intense.

When the first symptoms present themselves, such as backache, pains in groins, headache, dizziness, faintness, swelled feet, blues, etc., they should at once write Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., stating symptoms; she will tell them exactly what to do, and in the meantime, they will find prompt relief in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which can be obtained from any druggist.

"Mr. Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I am so grateful to you for what your Compound has done for me. For four years I suffered so with pains from ovarian trouble, while I used a deadful weakness of the limbs, tenderness and burning pain in the groins, pain while standing, dizziness, and increased pain during menstruation, headache and leucorrhœa. I weighed only 97 pounds, and was advised to use your Vegetable Compound, which I did. I felt the benefit before I had taken all of one bottle. I continued using it, and it has entirely cured me. I have not been troubled with leucorrhœa for months, and now I weigh 115 pounds."—Lucas Anderson, Flushing, Genesee Co., Michigan. Box 69.

The Grandest Remedy

Mr R. B. Breese, merchant, of Chilhowie, Va., certifies that he had consumption, was given up to die, sought all medical treatment that money could procure, tried all cough remedies he could hear of but got no relief, spent many nights sitting up in a chair, was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery, and was cured by use of two bottles. For past three years has been attending to business and says Dr. King's New Discovery is the grandest remedy ever made, as it has done so much for him and also for others in his community. Dr King's New Discovery is guaranteed for Coughs, Colds and Consumption. It don't fail. Trial bottles free at Ara Warren's Drug Store.

To brace up the system after "La Grippe," pneumonia, fevers and other prostrating acute diseases, to build up wasted flesh and strength, and to restore health and vigor when you feel "run-down" and tired-up, the best thing is the world is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It promotes all the bodily functions, restores every organ into healthful action, purifies and enriches the blood, and through it cleanses, repairs, and invigorates the entire system. For the most stubborn scrofulous, skin or scalp diseases, chronic blood, liver, lung, stomach and bowel troubles, it is unrivaled. "Discovery" [illegible]

COURT MATTERS

Heard Before Judge Vose on Thursday

In the Municipal Court yesterday Albert M. Giles of Eastbrook was tried on the charge of fishing for lobster on the ice at Salmon Pond, Eastbrook, with more than 5 set lines to wit 38 set lines said pond not being thereon and there tide water. The complaint was made by Game Warden Walter L. Neal, of Bangor. The result of the hearing was that the case was continued for sentence on payment of costs.

Richard O'Leary was charged with assault and battery by his wife, Annie O'Leary, and the case was heard yesterday. She claimed that he choked her and otherwise abused her while he denied having committed any assault whatever. O'Leary has applied for a divorce from his wife, and the papers were served on her yesterday in the court room. The case of assault was continued to the first Tuesday in February.

Facts and Gossip for Cyclists

Hale the winner of the six days' bicycle race at the Madison Square Garden last week, came over with Fournier and the other Englishmen, and when he started he was considered one of the weakest men in Plummer's string. The supposed stars gave out and Plummer was compelled to tie up to Hale. It was a case of having a clinch and not knowing it.

There will be a dinner in New York City today which will bring together about all of the men who were responsible for the organization of the League of American Wheelmen. The Boston Bicycle Club has the honor of being the pioneer bicycle club of the country but the New York Bicycle Club claims the honor of being responsible for the birth of the L. A. W. Among the incorporators of the club can be mentioned F. W. Ritching, George Strong, Daniel C. Kirk, Munroe, C. S. McCord, K. W. Putnam and Dowling Vaux.

The National Assembly of the League of American Wheelmen at Albany in February promises to be the liveliest in the history of that now powerful organization. The New York delegation which can almost turn the tide has always been silent on every question up to now. It will not follow Potter in his friendship for Elliott. The officers of the division will not support Elliott under any circumstances, they will boom Potter whether he wants the office or not. This is official. Mr Elliott it is said, has made some mistakes which the wheelmen of the Empire State will not overlook.

The lively interest taken in the new machines for pleasure well forward general welfare of the industry for the coming season. The larger manufacturers realizing that riders are not all of one mind regarding accessories, will offer more options for next season than ever. These options will include new lights, frame or gearing for the wheel tires, handle bars and everything else in reason. For instance one company will give on their wheels options on three different styles of tires which will include a double tube, detach able tire, a double tube cement tire and a single tube tire. The option will include six three different styles of saddles and three styles of handle bars. The popularity of the wooden handle bars for next season seems assured and many of the expert riders will insist upon having them on their wheels hereafter.

G. A. R. General Orders

Commander in Chief Clarkson in general orders No. 3, congratulates the Grand Army on the election of one of their number to the highest official position in the gift of the American people. The same order promulgates various changes in the rules and regulations adopted by the 30th encampment, and announces the name of members of the several committees.

The changes in the rules are: Amend art. 2 chap. 2 by adding after sec. 10 Sec. 11, Department may authorize posts to divide their membership into two classes—resident and non-resident members—within the territorial limits within which each class shall reside. No resident members shall pay such dues not less than the per capita tax to department headquarters including the tax to national headquarters) as the post may direct. When a sufficient number of non-resident members are in any locality they may be organized as an outpost to be designated as outpost No. — of post No. — department of —. Each outpost may annually elect from its own members a sergeant to preside at meetings.

Such meetings may be held at the home of any comrade at the convenience of members. The application of any person for non-resident membership in an outpost shall be passed upon by the parent post and the post commander may in person or by suitable detail muster in such applicant, and for such person may at his option administer only the obligation of membership.

Amend sec. 1 art. 2 chap. 2 by adding at the close of the section: Provided that where chapter rule not is provided by by laws or rules for the election of delegates by districts then in case of the absence of a delegate from such district the alternate from that district shall serve. III Sec. 5 art. 1 chap. 5 was stricken out—so that hereafter the provisions of sec. 3 and 4 of said article and chapter apply to comrades in the service of the United States the same as to all other honorable [illegible]

The concert will be given from 8 to 9 and Mrs W. A. Nelson and Pullen's orchestra will supply a choice programme which will give much pleasure. It will be the especially interesting lecture of the course and the audience will without doubt be one which will test the seating capacity of the church.

THE DERTHICK CLUB

Musical Festival of Three Days Planned for the Spring

The Derthick Club is having a very successful winter and is to reap more profit than ever before as the plans of the club are more extended. Mr I. S. Davenport has been secured as director which will be of very material aid to the organization. His decided talents as composer musician and director are too well known to need comment.

The club will study choruses from The Messiah and will give their work during the winter, with soloists from Boston. In the spring a three days' festival will be given with music of a high order and such as will provide a plenty of variety.

Tuesday evening of each week will be the time of meeting of the club.

No money is for sale to Chicago but it is kept in the treasury for club expenses. The fee for admission to the chorus is $1.50 for this season with admission to programmes and study class if desired, $6.00 for the whole course, including next winter.

Base Ball Notes

Here is Gene De Montreville's comparative estimate of the south side's Brilcustein and Klobedanz. Brilcustein has more speed and better curves than Klobedanz and he also has better head. Brill has been in the league long enough to know the ropes and while he was studying the game Klobedanz has had the command that Klobedanz will never develop unless he improves wonderfully. Klobedanz has a high slow curve and that is about lets him out. He is a splendid batsman, and if I were he I would hustle for a job in the outfield.

Thirty two players of the National league teams are residents of the State of Pennsylvania. Massachusetts claims a half dozen, Ohio half a dozen and New York 17.

Few realize the importance of this sport to Ireland. It is the veteran George Wright. He thought no thing of going out in summer and rolling up a score of or more cricket, foot ball or a strong game of base ball and is as erect at 65 or more as he is at 25. He is as great believer in exercise and every day walks to and from the Boston Athletic Club at the lunch hour.

Poor Billy Nash. His fall from the top of the managerial ladder down to the lowest rung, has been a very rapid one. The poor showing of the Philadelphia team last season sealed poor Billy's doom. He has been turned adrift and George Stallings of last year's Detroits will see what he can do with the Quaker next year.—Chicago Times.

Some western newspaper men are wondering who will become of Billy Nash now that the Philadelphia manager has secured Stallings for manager. Never fear about Billy. He's sure of a good job before him as sure as he will go to Grand Rapids he will surely get one with some club where his surroundings will be much more pleasant and congenial than in the City of Brotherly Love.

The world series promises to be a bloody and bloodless affair next year.

Jack Wilters, the fleet footed leader of the New Bedford club, has put in his claim for the captaincy of the Kansas City team.

It has been decided that the New York team will not take a preliminary trip to the Far South next spring but will go no further than to Virginia, or perhaps North Carolina.

The College Strength Tests

A revival of the dispute over the question of which is the strongest athletic college in the country is the record in a Massachusetts story.

Portleans of Kansas in the Harvard strength and of Lovering the record of muscle at Harvard are inclined to place them equal with or ahead of Nash of Tufts who on record is at the highest figure, excepting an amateur man. All the tests were a severe devised by Dr. Dudley A. Sargent, but there records have been found unsuited for comparison on account of varying conditions.

The Nash record has been thrown out of the competition because it has been noticed that the tested between the different tests. Kelsey's record stands as the best ever made at Harvard although Lovering came within three point of two weeks ago. As Kelsey is out of college Lovering is the strongest man in Harvard to-day.

It is not known whether the same conditions of testing have been observed in Nash's performance some of his performances showing internal violation of conditions at variance with a true measure of strength.

With a view to encouraging the use of muscular development and incidentally stimulating rest in a peaceful though amicable dispute, Dr. Sargent is planning a public exhibition next month which an open competition of strong men in college will be the central feature.

Godfrey of Lewiston College in Bangor young man stands well up among the college strongmen of the United States.

Big Game

Mr R. G. Anderson, assistant manager of the Boston Globe was in Bangor Thursday on his return from a hunting trip at Schoodic on the line of the Bangor & Aroostook railroad. He secured a moose weighing about 800 pounds which he took home with him. The moose had a good set of antlers. Mr Anderson was accompanied on the trip by Benjamin Billard and only went the one day. There were four caribou and ten deer on Wednesday night a train load of them passed through Oldtown. Two caribou from Patten and Mr Francis of Olamon, B. F. Shattuck of West Newton, and D. M. Bursley, of Newburyport. Mass. each brought out a caribou from the region around Mt. Katahdin. Mr Bursley also had a deer. S. McPheters, J. W. Cripps and Geo. Graham landed five deer at Oldtown from Norcross. Miss Grace Shepherd of Boston had a deer from Norcross and Miss C. M. Dunn brought one to Bangor from the same place.

Something to Know

It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centres in the stomach, gently stimulates the liver and kidneys, and aids these organs in throwing off impurities in the blood. Electric Bitters improves the appetite, aids digestion, and is pronounced by those who have tried it as the very best blood purifier and nerve tonic. Try it. Sold for 50c or $1.00 per bottle at Ara Warren's Drug store.

The best way to cure diseases is to drive it from the system by purifying the blood with Hood's Sarsaparilla. 3t

PENOBSCOT CLOSED

Ice Embargo Placed on the River

The cold weather of the past few days has had the effect on the waters of the Penobscot and on Thursday the river was closed to navigation to Hampden Narrows. It will doubtless remain closed for the winter unless a thaw should come immediately. The river froze over nicely, from the point of view of the ice dealers, and if the ice remains it will make an excellent crop.

It is probable that none of the owners will attempt to break through the ice as it is frozen so well.

The following is a table giving the time of closing and opening of the river for many years past:

AMUSEMENTS

Wilbur-Kirwin Opera Company

The Wilbur-Kirwin Opera Company for the matinee opera on Thursday repeated "The Queen's Lace Handkerchief" which was given on Wednesday night. The success of the first performance was as big in force yesterday and the audience was equally entertained.

Carmen in the evening attracted a large and representative audience, in fact the largest of the week. It was a well pleased assemblage which left the Opera House at the close of the performance, for the opera had been presented in a manner which was very commendable. Carmen is the most difficult and promising role in the company's repertoire but it was handled with praiseworthy skill both musically and in point of action. The principals exerted themselves to make the opera go and they succeeded while they were given very hearty applause by the choruses which sang with cue to a very spirit, and well balanced harmony. It would be difficult, in fact, indeed, to find a company playing at popular prices which could give a better presentation of Carmen which has long been in the repertoires of the best organizations in the world. Colby has ways created a furore in this work.

Again was in evidence a wealth of beautiful costumes displayed and this featured is one of the strong points of the company. Every opera is very handsomely costumed, particular attention having been given to it and special scenery was used in two acts.

As Carmen Miss Kirwin showed that her talents in comic serious roles is in high opera. Although troubled with a cold she sang sweetly and brilliantly and acted strongly, with the saucy coquetry required by the role.

Mr Rowland's Escamillo was forcibly and with much success. His Toreador song was rendered most excellently and received the compliment of a double recall from the audience.

Mr Ferguson's Don Jose was spiritedly sung and acted and Mr Hodges and Mr Filbert had an opportunity to get some effective comedy work.

The audience gave the certain trios during the performance.

This afternoon Mignon will be given and the evening opera is Madame Favart. Both are very pleasing works and the attendance will doubtless be large.

Maine Sardine Pack

The Maine sardine season has closed and it will be four months before the manufacturers are allowed to open. The season has been shorter than the average. While the time for opening is April 1st several weeks were put up before the last report. The cause of the delay was due to the scarcity of fish and the refusal of the employes to begin work at the wages offered.

As the Boston and New York markets were overstocked with sardines, packed the previous season they were sold below the cost of manufacturing.

The pack this year has been below the average and will be fully two thirds less than that of the former season. There were about 800,000 cases of various kinds of fish packed on the Maine coast during the season. This year it will fall short nearly 300,000 cases.

The country has about 3,000,000 cases of sardines packed in Eastport, Lubec and the surrounding towns to Oct. 1. The last season's pack was more than 700,000 cases. This year it will reach about 400,000.

The packing of sardines at Eastport employs more than 2,000 people, who find it difficult to support themselves for 12 months with less than six months work.

Yet this has been the case this season. The employes have been idle during this time about six weeks caused by another reduction in a few of the factories, but the difficulty was settled and the men started to work to finish up the short season. There are 16 factories in Eastport and about as many more at Lubec and North Lubec.

A POISONED LIVER
DON'T KEEP POISON IN YOUR BODY LONGER THAN YOU HAVE TO.
If your stomach poisons your liver the consequences may be serious.
What poisons arise in your stomach come from undigested food which has decomposed in the [illegible]. They are absorbed by your blood and go to your liver where they paralyze its functions and make you bilious.
Finally they go into the blood again and are carried all over the body disordering your different organs and perhaps making you dangerously sick.
This is the origin of many diseases which are not always known for what they are.
The poisons of undigested food can only be got rid of by the use of a purifying, strengthening, digestive tonic like the Shaker Digestive Cordial.
A few doses of this wonderful cordial will soon clear away all undigested, fermenting, poisonous substances, restore your appetite and you to digest your food, purify your liver and blood of all dangerous poisons and restore you to perfect health.
It will cure biliousness, indigestion, dizziness, headache, dizziness, mental depression, weakness, fever, flatulence, constipation, loss of appetite, bad taste in mouth, stomach-ache, stomach, rheumatism, etc., where other medicines will barely give relief.
At druggists. Ten cents for a trial bottle. Write for free book to The Shakers, 30 Reade Street, New York.
